Dear Mr. Fleming:

I do not feel that we in the Central Intelligence Agency are sufficiently familiar with the problems of frequency congestion described in your letter to me of 19 October 1956, to be able to offer any useful suggestions for relieving the present acute situation.

This Agency is not a large user of radio frequencies. Our needs are normally confined to those portions of the HF, VHF and UHF bands presently allocated to the Fixed and Mobile Services. However, in our future limited development program we will maintain liaison with other development agencies as necessary to ensure that proper coordination and consideration of frequency management problems are effected.

Sincerely,

SIGNED
